

Legal Hold Repository

Secure ESI Storage for Your Review

Designed with big data in mind, Legility's Legal Hold Repository (LHR) is an agile, robust and innovative solution to enterprise Information Governance and eDiscovery challenges.

We ensure on-demand access to information and reporting by maintaining all data subject to litigation, investigative or regulatory inquiry in on SOC 2 secure environment. All material is de-duplicated and indexed, resulting in searchable single-instance storage environment.

Search and select data you want to promote to review and/or advanced analytics. As your data is reviewed, key attributes like privilege calls can be propagated to future matters, reducing risk of inadvertent disclosure. Our process integrates seamlessly with traditional eDiscovery workflows so you don't have to spend excess time and money escalating data to review.

This flexible solution also allows for pairing with multiple eDiscovery platforms. Our Legal Hold Repository services can be bundled with any of our eDiscovery services, or stand alone with your existing review solutions.
